Local MDwise executive earns top healthcare management credential

INDIANAPOLIS, May 22, 2008 – Charlotte A. MacBeth, J.D., FACHE, president of MDwise, Inc. in Indianapolis, recently became a Fellow of the American College of Healthcare Executives (ACHE), the nation’s leading professional society for healthcare leaders.

“Because healthcare management ultimately affects the people in our communities, it is critically important to have a standard of excellence promoted by a professional organization,” says Thomas C. Dolan, Ph.D., FACHE, CAE, president and chief executive officer of ACHE. “By becoming an ACHE Fellow and simultaneously earning board certification from ACHE, healthcare leaders can show that they are committed to providing high-quality service to their patients and community.”

Fellow status represents achievement of the highest standard of professional development. In fact, only 7,500 healthcare executives hold this distinction. To obtain Fellow status, candidates must fulfill multiple requirements, including passing a comprehensive examination, meeting academic and experiential criteria, earning continuing education credits and demonstrating professional/community involvement. Fellows are also committed to ongoing professional development and undergo recertification every three years.

MacBeth is privileged to use the FACHE credential which signifies board certification in healthcare management and ACHE Fellow status. MacBeth has served as president of MDwise since 1999. She holds a Bachelor’s of Public Health, Master’s of Health Administration, and Doctor of Jurisprudence from Indiana University. She also earned a Master of Business Administration from Butler University. Previously, MacBeth worked as an attorney for Legislative Services Agency, as director of Government Relations at Anthem, and director of Government Relations and Health Policy with the Indiana Health and Hospital Corporation.
